Catalogue of Sporting Books

1. AMERICAN TURF REGISTER AND SPORTING MAGAZINE. Vol. 1, No. 1, Baltimore, September, 1829, to No. 12, August, 1830. Containing twelve full-page steel engravings of prominent race horses and other outdoor sports. Also results of races held in those days. Edited and published by JOHN S. SKINNER. 643 pages, bound in half calf. A few pages and plates slightly foxed from age. Price $5.00 per Vol. and upwards.

*This was one of the most interesting magazines ever published in America. It gives accounts of General Washington importing mares from England to improve the breed of Horses in America. It also gives accounts of Gen. Washington as a sportsman and in 1790 he owned a beautiful horse called "MAGNOLIA" and he also served as a judge at Alexandria.

It also gives accounts of Andrew Jackson and a number of other prominent gentlemen who raced and bred Horses in early days; also an account of the great match race between Henry and Eclipse held May, 1823; also an account of the Wagner and Gray Eagle race and of the Boston and Fashions match race, and a very interesting account of the celebrated trotting horse "Tom Thumb" taken to England by Mr. Jackson of Long Island City in January, 1829. This horse trotted one hundred miles in less than ten hours, pulling a cart weighing 108 pounds, driven by William Haggerty, 22 years of age, who weighed 140 pounds.

And also an account of a fine young horse called the "Roan Colt" that won at Alexandria, owned by Thomas Jefferson.

It also gives an account of the Fox Hounds presented to Gen. Washington by Gen. Lafayette in 1783. These Hounds formed the nucleus of the early packs of Virginia.

The "Warwick woodlands" by Frank Forester, was first publishdd in this magazine in June, 1839.

Posthumous Works, 1795. (I) General Observation on the Art of Veterinary Medicine; (II) An Essay on the Cresse, or Watery Sores in the Legs of Horses; (III) Experiments and Observations made upon Glandered Horses; (IV) Short Observations on the Cholic or Gripes, 3 volumes in one; bound in half calf. The author was born at Lyons, January 28, 1753, after a distinguished career in France, came to England at the Revolution. 'Sainbel may justly be looked upon as the founder of scientific veterinary practice in England. The lines which he laid down have been faithfully followed in England and Scotland, and led from the merest empiricism to the scientific position now held by the veterinary science. That he was a first-rate anatomist and a scientific veterinary surgeon, is proved by his writings. London, 1795.....$25.00
